

If the FCC cannot regulate the violence on TV, there should at least be some regulation in the advertising of shows and the violence presented in a 30second clip aired. When I am watching a baseball game with my seven-year-old son, I should not have to reach for the remote at each commercial just in case a violent promo comes on for shows such as House, 24, CSI, Revelations, etc.